Race 1-#8 CINDY'S JOY (5:1); #16 THIRD ROW CENTER (2:1); #4 ANOTHER PLEASE (6:1); #3 CUPOLATTE (9:1)

Favorites: This is a maiden claiming distance race on the turf for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is below average. Betting a favorite in this kind of race will rarely give you any satisfaction. If you hit a favorite in a race of this type it will usually not be enough to compensate you for the distress that you have suffered in previous similar races. It's better to pass on this type of race than put too much confidence in a good looking favorite (which is fairly likely to go down the tubes). If you have to bet play the odds (use the betting line) and look for a lightly raced developing runner with some of potential to improve.

Wagering: #8 CINDY'S JOY is our top choice and is a top possibility. Overall, the selections look sound and we prefer Baby bet on this race due to only one selection projected to make par. This race has a stronger than average power score (6 stars) indicating that a the field is strong enough to produce a surprise or two. However, because the top choice is the only runner to make par it should be used in any combination wagers as the key horse for this race. Any of the top four selections appear somewhat likely however.

Race 2-#2 LOVE TO RUN (9:5); #7 SEEKER (7:5); #3 START THE PARTY (13:1); #9 VILLANDRY (9:1)

Favorites: This is an maiden sprint on the dirt for two year olds with no sex restrictions. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for the favorite is about average and therefore is not a good bet unless you can get odds above even money. An odds-on choice in the top two selections should be included in any combination bets.

Wagering: #2 LOVE TO RUN is our top choice and is a top possibility. #7 SEEKER is our second choice and is a top possibility. We recommend making Papa Bet on this race due to the very large field. The strength of this field is about average (5 stars) and it has a good shot at being won by one of the top two selections and has a preferred rating. Use the top two selections as key to any combination wagers and combine them as needed with the 3rd selection.

Race 3-#8 CEASE (5:2); #4 REIN KING (5:1); #7 REACH A DECISION (7:1); #3 METROLOGY (12:1)

Favorites: This is an allowance distance race on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a fair chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is above average. Betting against a solid favorite in this race does not appear to be a wise wagering strategy. However, if the favorite looks weak and you have a solid alternative then you could take home some nice dividends if you are patient.

Wagering: #8 CEASE is our top choice and is a top possibility. The top choices in this race have a good power rating (5 total stars) but still appear to be somewhat weak win bet possibilities because none are rated above par. Any of the top four selections might win this race but the top selection appears to have a slight edge over the balance of the field. Use our Papa bet recommendation if you can to cover as many possibilities as you can. The strong power total (6 stars) makes it likely that one of the top three will win this race. Box the top two choices with the 3rd and 4th selections to complete any exotic plays. However, as usual, this bet is "Up2U".

Race 4-#1 WISE STOP (5:2); #3 DAWLY (2:1); #1A CURE (8:1); #5 AUGUST OSAGE (23:1)

Favorites: This is an allowance sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a fair chance of winning today. The public easily identifies likely winners in this class of race and the favorites earn their share as they have an average ROI. It is tough to bet favorites in this type race and make money so a 'no bet' may be the best win bet strategy here in larger fields. Include most favorites in any combination bets. Prime bets will be a sound investment in this type of a race.

Wagering: #1 WISE STOP is our top choice and is a top possibility. The top choices in this race have a good power rating (5 total stars) but still appear to be somewhat weak win bet possibilities because none are rated above par. Any of the top four selections might win this race but the top selection appears to have a slight edge over the balance of the field. Use our Papa bet recommendation if you can to cover as many possibilities as you can. The strong power total (6 stars) makes it likely that one of the top three will win this race. ### Race 5-#14 AVOLO (2:1); #9 SHANDREA (8:1); #6 SPLENDID (12:1); #2 AQSAAM (3:1)

Favorites: This is a maiden distance race on the turf for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The publics choice has a nearly break even ROI and therefore should not be eliminated unless it appears likely to lose. A favorite in this race below 6:5 or so should warrant strong consideration in any betting strategy but do not make a win wager unless the odds meet or exceed the betting line.

Wagering: #14 AVOLO is our top choice and is a top possibility. Our top selection may be worthy of a win wager but we have not projected it to make par. Like most of the runners in this race it is a bit suspect and either of the top two runners in this race look just about as likely as the other so using the betting line to separate out the top two may be the best option for success on a win wager. Use our Papa Bet recommendations because none of the top selections appear to stand out that much above the other. Since there are no standouts in this race, any of the top four picks may produce a winner which means that a longshot has a chance at taking this race. If you choose to bet, bet with caution. As usual, it's "Up2U".

Race 6-#11 ADRIATIC SPIRIT (5:2); #7 LITTLE DALE (2:1); #5 T. J'S BODYLAN (10:1); #12 SLEEPY FREUD (7:1)

Favorites: This is an maiden sprint on the turf for two year olds no sex restrictions. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is below average. This race looks like a good opportunity to make money on a spoiler since the favorites have a very weak chance at taking this one. Generally it will be better to pass than bet on a favorite unless you can get 8:5 or so (or they beat their betting line) and that can be a little iffy. Save some money and throw the public choice out of any combination play where it appears weak.

Wagering: #11 ADRIATIC SPIRIT is our top choice and is a top possibility. #7 LITTLE DALE is our second choice and is a top possibility. The selections look sound and we recommend a Mama bet on this race due two selections projected to make par. This race is somewhat likely to be won by one of the top two selections even though it is very competitive (7 stars) and has a preferred rating. Use the top two selection to complete any combination wagers. Throw in a 3rd and 4th or 5th where needed to complete any exotic wager.

Race 7-#1 AMBASSADOR BRIDGE (4:1); #8 HAYA'S BOY (5:2); #6 HOOK AND LATERAL (5:2); #2 BROADWAY PHILLY (9:1)

Favorites: This is a maiden claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a fair chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is above average. The strategy for betting this race is to eliminate favorites which are likely to lose and bet against them when a good opportunity permits. Stay with favorites which are top selections (prime) at odds at or above the betting line. Include favorites which are probable contenders or odds-on in combination bets.

Wagering: #1 AMBASSADOR BRIDGE is our top choice and is a top possibility. Our top selection may be worthy of a win wager but we have not projected it to make par. Like most of the runners in this race it is a bit suspect and either of the top two runners in this race look just about as likely as the other so using the betting line to separate out the top two may be the best option for success on a win wager. Use our Papa bet recommendation to cover as many possibilities on the exotics as you can. Overall, this race has a very high power score (8 stars) which supports the chance of longshots having something to do with the outcome of this race. If you choose to bet, bet with caution. ### Race 8-#14 SUN DANCE MOON (6:1); #3 TRUE TO TRADITION (5:1); #13 SPIRIT OF COCHISE (7:1); #2 GOLDEN WEEKEND (11:1)

Favorites: This is a non graded stakes race sprint on the turf for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is very low. Betting against the favorite in this type of race should be the order of the day. The favorite has as much chance as winning as any other runner in the race and they all have better odds. Take the odds where you can find a logical alternative and feel comfortable excluding public choices from any exotic wagers.

Wagering: #14 SUN DANCE MOON is our top choice and is a top possibility. Our top selection may be worthy of a win wager but we have not projected it to make par. Like most of the runners in this race it is a bit suspect and either of the top two runners in this race look just about as likely as the other so using the betting line to separate out the top two may be the best option for success on a win wager. ### Race 9-#1A CLIP THE COUPONS (2:1); #1 CURRENCY SWAP (9:1); #2 HUNT CROSSING (10:1); #4 POWER WORLD (5:1)

Favorites: This is a graded stakes sprint on the dirt for two year olds for open company. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is well above average. This is a chance to make money on a favorite but it has to be the right favorite. Any favorite in the 1st or 2nd slot over even money should be a good possibility. Prime bets below even moneys will be killers in any combination opportunities.

Wagering: #1A CLIP THE COUPONS is our top choice and is a top possibility. Our top selection may be worthy of a win wager but we have not projected it to make par. Like most of the runners in this race it is a bit suspect and either of the top two runners in this race look just about as likely as the other so using the betting line to separate out the top two may be the best option for success on a win wager. Using our Papa Bet recommendations will provide you with the best opportunity of hitting an exotic. There are no standouts in this race and the top four picks may not produce a winner because not one of them appears close to making par which means that a longshot has a good chance at taking this race. If you choose to bet, bet with caution. But it's "Up2U".

Race 10-#9 GIANTS PLAY (3:1); #10 DYANI (7:1); #4 AINAMAA (6:1); #1 PRIZE CATCH (6:1)

Favorites: This is a graded stakes turf distance race for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is very low. This is a tough race for favorites and they don't win that often. The public is generally looking at which contender just won instead of which one is going to win. Unless there is a standout with about a 17 race win streak your better to look for something with a solid second or third last time around.

Wagering: #9 GIANTS PLAY is our top choice and is a top possibility. Our top selection may be worthy of a win wager but we have not projected it to make par. Like most of the runners in this race it is a bit suspect and either of the top two runners in this race look just about as likely as the other so using the betting line to separate out the top two may be the best option for success on a win wager. Use our Papa bet recommendation if you can to cover as many possibilities as you can. For the exotics, the top two selections appear the strongest and can be used as keys but overall since none of the top selections have made par this race is open to a surprise. We recommend betting with caution on this race but as usual it's "Up2U".

Race 11-#16 KEIKO (4:1); #10 REBELLIOUS CHIC (7:1); #7 CITY LOOK (9:1); #14 DRINKSONTHEHOUSE (9:5)

Favorites: This is an maiden sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is about average. The profit potential betting favorites in this one is pretty near dismal except if you can isolate a winner now and then with out betting too many losers in between. Winning favorites can have a good return. All things considered, it is better to look elsewhere for a profitable experience.

Wagering: #16 KEIKO is our top choice and is a top possibility. #10 REBELLIOUS CHIC is our second choice and is a top possibility. #7 CITY LOOK is our second choice and is a top possibility. The selections look very sound and we recommend a Papa bet on this race due to three selections projected to make par. This race has a good chance of being won by one of the top three selections and we have rated this race as prime. Use the top two selection to complete any combination wagers and complete the wager with the 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th choice as needed.

Explanations and Definitions

Selection Line (Top Line, Bold Type) – Historically, the higher the selection is on the line the more likely it is to win and the higher ROI will be on the average. When selections are too even to separate they are coupled in the wagering detail and the betting line is the recommended method of selection. Other factors to consider are in the dialog following the selection line.

Betting Line- (in parentheses after the selection) -The betting line odds represent what we think is the value of the horse in the race. If the selections final odds are near the betting line, then its odds are in line with its' potential to win. Over the long haul it should yield a flat bet profit or better. In general the smaller the betting line the greater the chances of the selection winning. It stands to reason that a 4:5 selection is more likely to win but over the long haul than a 5:1 but the latter may return a larger profit even though it does not win as often.

Papa, Mama and Baby bets – Recommended plays are increased in their size and complexity according to their chances of yielding a winner. A high odds play will get a Baby bet recommendation and a Papa bet will be recommended when we feel that the wager requires being spread out a bit to cover more possibilities. We feel that it's better to not to place a wager at all unless the size of the wager matches the probability of the wagers success. In general, more complex wagers yield a bigger return. Making too big of a wager given the likelihood of success will just lead to a negative ROI over the long haul. If there are no selections above par we will usually recommend that you play the betting line odds. It can lead to some huge payoffs.

Prime, preferred and select bet types – From first to last, the bets are given a type to indicate the greater and lesser chances of success. On the win bet prime has about a 50% chance of winning, preferred has about a 50% chance of placing and select has about a 50% at coming in third. On combination bets, it's a bit different. It's high, moderate and fair in that order.

Stars – Selections are awarded from 0 to 3 stars according to their likelihood of winning. It's like brownie points but a lot more complex. It is a consistency rating using some of the more commonly used consistency factors such as win percentage for the horse, trainer and jockey as well as the likelihood of the handicap selecting a winner under the conditions of the race. We consider these soft values because they do not represent the actual ability and current condition of the selection. We have to dig a lot deeper to come up with those values. As a total they represent a power score for each race by which we can judge the overall strength of the field or the strength of a wager. Low star counts mean that the selections and fields are softer; higher, means they are more competitive. Five total stars for a race is considered average. This five star number can also be used to determine the strength of a wager. The higher the star count the more likely it is to make a return on your investment. However, winning wagers on lower star counts often have much higher payoffs.

Par and projected to make par – Par is a complex value used to judge whether or not a runner can meet the performance values required to win the race. We do not use speed as our sole component to weight the strength of a selection and we include a wide range of more esoteric (and proprietary) measurements to represent the condition of a runner and to project the likely performance of the selections. We term these values 'figures' and to our knowledge the values we have developed are not used by anyone else that we know of. Runners whose figures can meet or exceed par are much more likely to be on board. Par is not a static value assigned to a different class levels, etc.(as in most systems which use par) but instead it is a dynamic (and different) value created for each and every race we handicap. However, what we have done is no different than anyone else. We are each trying to select a winner by estimating what the horse is going to do next. What is unique about our approach is that we have quantified the form cycle. In general, we know what makes a horses performance vary from race to race and we have been able to measure those variances in gross terms and we have assigned values to those variances. Those values are used to project a runner's next performance against what we expect a particular field to produce and call that performance value 'par'. Whether a runner is a 65 or a 105 as in speed figures is of little importance as far as selecting winners using our methodology.

Total bets – Gives the player an idea how much the bet will cost. Multiply the cost of the of a single bet time the number of bets and you will have the total cost of the wager.
