Explanations

Selection line (Top line) - Historically, the higher the selection is on the line the more likely it is to win and the higher the ROI will be on average. When selections are too even to separate they are coupled in the betting detail and the betting line is the recommended method of selection. Other factors to consider are discussed in the dialog after the selection line.

Betting line - (after the selections name). Helps to determine the value of a selection. In general the smaller betting line the greater the chance of the winning. The larger the betting line the greater The Return on Investment (ROI). It stands to reason that a 4:5 selection will win more often but a 5:1 selection may return more profit overtime even though it does not win as often. On average when a selections odds at post time are at or greater than the betting line the likelier it is to return a profit.

PaPa, MaMa and Baby Bets - Bets are more complex as the size of investment increases and the chance to win or lose larger sums of money also increases. The different wager types are geared to the different size of players bankrolls and the selections try to maximize the chances of placing a winning bet while minimizing the investment. The Best Bet recommendation next to each bet type helps the player determine the number of bets to include in a wager. The smaller the size the stronger the bet. If our Win Bet selections don't seem to gel we sometimes recommend that you play the betting line 'Odds' located on the selection line.

Prime, Preferred and Select Bets - From first to last, the type play is rated as to it's chance of winning. On average Prime has the greatest chance, Preferred has moderate chance and Select is better than average. Stronger bets warrant larger wagers.

Stars - Each selection is awarded from 0 to 3 stars according to their likelihood of winning. Total stars is the sum of all stars in the bet recommendation. The more stars the bet type has the more likely it is to win when compared to a like bet type.

Total Bets - Gives the player an idea how much the bet will cost. Multiply the cost of a single bet times the number of bets and you will have the total cost of the combined wager.

Morning Edition

Race 1- #6 KELTIC FIGHTER(9:5); #3 KITTY CALIENTE(2:1); #4 SMALT(4:1); #2 TEXAS MIKE(4:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for favorites on this race is below average so stay away from a public choice unless the choice can out class the field and has been over looked by the crowd. Look for odds of 8:5 or better (except for prime opportunites) and viable selections which can be wagered more profitably by playing the odds (using the betting line).

Exotics: The picks in this race appear to be very weak and a winner could come from any part of the field. Using the first two selections in any combination play is the preferred strategy but they are not all that solid so it may be better to keep your wallet in your pocket or purse until the next race. You might do well if you spread your money over a number of runners rather than focus on one or two possibilities. The saving grace is that it is a small field so it is not a hopeless situation. Morning Edition

Race 2- #4 LACY'S TUNE(9:5); #7 NEBULA(5:2); #2 WIN JANE'S HEART(3:1); #1 POCAHONTAS' LEGEND(6:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming distance race on the dirt for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is about average. The runners in this race should be well tested and the field will often be competitive so the favorite will win its share and if you bet too many of them you will not earn your share. Don't bet against odds on favorites unless they appear over bet and include most in any combination bet.

Exotics: None of the top picks appear to have much of an advantage or a lock on this event. The top pick may have a slight advantage over the 2nd and 3rd pick which appear evenly matched and the 4th pick is weakest of all but still could be a factor. Overall this is not a strong group of choices even for the smaller field size and combination bets should use the top three selections where you can fit them in. Use the 4th selection as insurance. Race 3- #6 HAVENTGOTMYWINGS(4:5); #2 GREAT PATRIOT(3:1); #5 API MOHKAT(5:1); #4 FAIRLY CRAFTY(6:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for favorites on this race is below average so stay away from a public choice unless the choice can out class the field and has been over looked by the crowd. Look for odds of 8:5 or better (except for prime opportunities) and viable selections which can be wagered more profitably by playing the odds (using the betting line).

Exotics: The top pick should be considered a strong possibility in this in this race. The second pick appears to have a moderate likelihood and could be the spoiler for the top pick but the rest of the top selections appear weak. Use the top two in a win/place combination on any exotic bets and fill in with the rest as needed but keep it light because this is a small field and betting too much will not pay off in the long run. Race 4- #4 LILY'S GOLDMINE(7:5); #1 SIX PACK SARA(2:1); #6 TIPSY TONYA(5:2); #5 SCARBOUROUGH FAIR(5:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming distance race on the dirt for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is about average. The runners in this race should be well tested and the field will often be competitive so the favorite will win its share and if you bet too many of them you will not earn your share. Don't bet against odds on favorites unless they appear over bet and include most in any combination bet.

Exotics: None of the top three picks appear to have a significant advantage in this race. The top pick may have a slight advantage over the 2nd and 3rd pick which appear evenly matched and the 4th pick is weakest of all and still a possible contender. Combination bets should use the top selection in conjunction with the 2nd, 3rd and 4th selections with not too much regard for any one of them over the other. Money management is critical in this type of race.(4 stars)

Race 5- #5 DEEP REGRET(4:5); #1 WAX ON WAX OFF(3:1); #2 CODY MONSTER(4:1); #3 ROAR OF THE LOCUST(8:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up for open company. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for favorites on this race is below average so stay away from a public choice unless the choice can out class the field and has been over looked by the crowd. Look for odds of 8:5 or better (except for prime opportunites) and viable selections which can be wagered more profitably by playing the odds (using the betting line).

Exotics: This is a small field where the favorite is often a weak choice but the top pick in this race may have enough of an advantage to win this race and is considered a fair possibility. The second pick appears to have a good likelihood also and the rest of the top selections appear weak. Use the top two in a win/place combination on any exotic bets. Fill in with the rest as needed but keep it light because betting too many selections will not pay off in the long run. Use the odds to separate the top two where a winner is likely to come from more often than not. (4 stars)

Morning Edition

Race 6- #1 HALAVAH(4:5); #3 B B GOOSE(2:1); #4 REVERE BEACH BOY(4:1); #2 OUR TREASURER UNC(14:1)

Favorites: This is an maiden sprint on the dirt for two year olds with no sex restrictions. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for the favorite is about average and therefore is not a good bet unless you can get odds above even money. An odds-on choice in the top two selections should be included in any combination bets.

Exotics: This is a small field where the favorite is often a weak choice but the top pick in this race may have enough of an advantage to win this race and is considered a fair possibility. The second pick appears to have a good likelihood also and the rest of the top selections appear weak. Use the top two in a win/place combination on any exotic bets. Fill in with the rest as needed but keep it light because betting too many selections will not pay off in the long run. Use the odds to separate the top two where a winner is likely to come from more often than not. (4 stars)

Race 7- #6 GIANNARCHA(2:5); #7 PROUD CITY GAL(5:2); #3 SWAN'S DIVA(16:1); #2 SUNSET AFFAIR(17:1)

Favorites: This is a maiden claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is above average. Any odds on favorite in the top three selections should be given strong consideration as part of any wagering strategy but don't bet them to win unless they make the betting line.

Exotics: The top pick appears to have the advantage to win this race and is considered a strong possibility. The second pick is a possibility and could pick up the pieces if there is a misstep by the top selection and the field is large enough to be hiding a spoiler. Use the top two in a win/place combination on any exotic bets. At least one of them should be able to get the job done. (4 stars)

Morning Edition

Race 8- #3 BILL'S JEWELL(7:5); #6 OUR DREAMETTE(3:1); #9 SPECIAL JAK(6:1); #2 JORDANNA BANANNA(9:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming distance race on the turf for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a low chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is about average. The potential for making money with favorites in this one is low. You will have to look hard and know your stuff to come out ahead betting on favorites in this kind of event. Seek good looking alternatives. Include odds on favorites in any betting strategy and think twice about betting against them.

Exotics: The first choice is a moderately strong choice but the 2nd and 3rd choices could make it tough for the top pick. Any exotic plays should use the 1st choice in the win/place slots since it is the strongest contender. The 2nd and 3rd choice might have their say so include them an any wagering strategy and fill in where necessary with the 4th. This is a large field and a spoiler could upset the apple cart so use PaPa bets if your wallet can take the action. (5 stars)

Race 9- #1 DODI N ME(8:5); #6 LOLA'S RIDGE(2:1); #7 ACT WON(7:2); #3 FLORIDIAN MAK(10:1)

Favorites: This is a claiming sprint on the dirt for three year olds and up fillies and mares. The favorite in this race has a moderate chance of winning today. The ROI for this type race is about average. Betting against a favorite in this type of race is a good strategy for profitability. Only take good looking favorite (prime) prospects at or above their betting line. Odds on choices merit special attention and most favorites should be included in combination bets unless they appear weak (third of so in the selection line).

Exotics: The first choice in this race appears to be slightly stronger than the 2nd and 3rd choices and is a preferred opportunity. The forth choice appears weakest of all. Overall the top three represent a strong betting opportunity in this size field and could yield exotic rewards. (6 stars)
